Black Tie Tigers were recently honored at a banquet hosted by the BTT advisory team and funded by a Chamber of Commerce education grant. The event, held at Bevricks, was an opportunity for the Black Tie Tigers, who routinely serve others at special events, to be served themselves. "We wanted to take the opportunity for our students to 'be served' a formal meal as a way to give back to them for their service of serving and hosting community and school events throughout the year," said Candler County Program for Exceptional Children Parent Mentor Carol Smith. Each year Smith teams with Marnie Dekle of the University of Georgia Extension office to provide a three-day training for students to learn necessary job skills. This is part of the transition planning to prepare Metter High students for their chosen careers. This was the ceremony where they received their UGA "Work Ready" certification.
